Veterans Invited to Reading and Discussion Program at Henrico County Public Library

Henrico County Public Library in collaboration with the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities is offering a unique opportunity to veterans in the community through a reading and discussion group called Talking Service. The first Talking Service program will be held at Libbie Mill Library, located at 2100 Libbie Lake East Street, on Wednesday, January 13 at 7pm.

At Libbie Mill Library, veterans will come together over the course of eight Wednesday night sessions to discuss a variety of readings about military service from the book Standing Down: From Warrior to Civilian, published by the Great Books Foundation. Each selection serves as a jumping off point for vets to reflect on their own experiences in the military and returning home. The discussions will be facilitated by Mike Hatchett, Fairfield Area Library Manager and OIF Veteran.

Talking Service is free and open to past and present members of the Armed Forces and the general public. For more information about the program visit henricolibrary.org/talkingservice or call 804-290-9400 x.5.
